Lauren E. Alexander MPH '13

Lauren E. Alexander is a 2013 graduate of Mailman who studied in the Population and Family Health Department. She is currently the Director of Value Based Payment Initiatives at Fidelis Care where she oversees the Value Based Payment provider engagement and data analytics teams as well as social determinants of health activities. Lauren truly valued her Mailman experience and has engaged in various school events, networking and mentoring activities since graduating. She is looking forward to bringing this engagement to the next level through her role on the Alumni Board, especially during this exciting time in the school's history. Lauren is particularly passionate about mentoring and is looking forward to how she can further support student and alumni mentoring in this new role as well as explore other ways she can give back to Mailman through her board participation.
