

Saving the lives of acutely ill patients is our goal.

At sidHARTE, we believe that strengthening acute care systems from the community level to the referral hospital level saves lives.

In countries where we work, health systems infrastructures are weak and emergency care specialists are often not found. Without access to quality referral, triage, resuscitation and definitive care, patients may not survive to reach the appropriate health care facilities or receive proper care. As the need for emergency care services in these countries grows, our work is more relevant now than ever before.

Your tax-deductible contributions will help sidHARTE develop and implement sustainable programs that strengthen health systems' ability to respond to life threatening conditions in Asia, Latin-America, and sub-Saharan Africa.
